Dear Sir:

Applicants respectfully contend that the above-referenced application was improperly held as abandoned on November 3, 2005. Applicants petition under 37 CFR § 1.181 to request withdrawal of the holding of abandonment as of that date, and to change the abandonment date to November 4, 2005.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The Examiner issued a final Office Action for the above-captioned case on December 2, 2004. (Exh A.) On April 4, Applicants filed a Notice of Appeal, a One Month Extension of Time (extending the response date to April 4, 2005 as April 2 was a Saturday), and the corresponding fees. (Exh. B.) Pursuant to MPEP 1205.01 and 37 CFR § 1.136(a), these filings preserved the pendency of the above-captioned application through November 4, 2005.

On November 4, 2005, Applicants filed a five (5) month extension of time to formally extend the Appeal period to November 4, 2005. (Exh. C.) Applicants also on that same date filed a continuation application claiming priority to the instant application. Since the continuation was filed on the last day of the pendency period, the applications were properly co-pending as of the filing date of the continuation application.

On November 7, 2005, Applicants' representative received a Notice of Abandonment for the instant application. (Exh. D.) The Notice incorrectly sets the abandonment date at November 3, 2005, not November 4, 2005. As set forth above, this abandonment date is in error.

POINTS TO BE REVIEWED

Whether the instant application was properly held abandoned on November 3, 2005.

ACTION REQUESTED

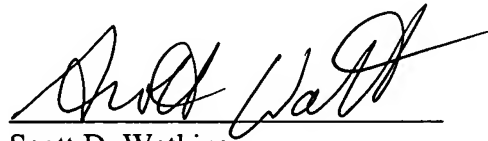

Applicants petition under 37 CFR § 1.181 to request withdrawal of the holding of abandonment as of November 3, 2005, and to change the abandonment date to November 4, 2005.

The relevant provisions of the MPEP and CFR establish the actual abandonment date of the instant application as November 4, 2005, and thus supercede the Examiner's error in issuing a Notice of Abandonment one day early. As such, the continuation application enjoys co-pendency as required by law. Nonetheless, out of an overabundance of caution, Applicants petition to have the error corrected by changing the Abandonment date from November 3, 2005 to November 4, 2005.

The instant petition is filed with two (2) months from the November 3, 2005 mailing date of the Notice of Abandonment from which relief is requested, and thus timely under 37 CFR § 1.181(f).

Since this petition is to correct a PTO error, no fee is believed due. If a fee is due, the Commissioner is hereby authorized to charge/credit any fee deficiencies or overpayments to Deposit Account No. 19-4293 (Order No. 15771.0017).

Respectfully submitted,

DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. Applicant's Formal Drawings have been received, but have not been scanned into the file. Therefore, Examiner cannot approve the drawing changes. Examiner suggests Applicant submit copies of the formal drawings on paper instead of Bristol board so that the drawings can be scanned into the file.

Claim Interpretation

2. As pointed out in the previous office action, Applicant's claims are extremely broad. Examiner informed Applicant that some of the claims are so broad that they border on the indefinite. In the interest of prosecution, Examiner did not reject these claims under 35 USC §112. Instead, Examiner interpreted the claims to the best of his ability while, at the same time, urging Applicant to narrow the claims to more closely reflect Applicant's invention.

3. Examiner then pointed to claim 10 as a particularly egregious example of a claim that could have been rejected under 35 USC §112. In spite of Examiner's clear warning, Applicant declined to amend the claims and argued that if the claim was unclear it should have been rejected under 35 USC §112. Examiner has no choice but to make such a rejection. Since Applicant was put on notice that the claim was defective and could have been rejected under 35 USC §112, Examiner will make this rejection final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Art Unit: 3714

5. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a web interface, does not reasonably provide enablement for a simplified web interface. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. Applicant has failed to describe the manner in which the web interface can be said to be “simplified”. Applicant argues that it is simplified in comparison to Microsoft Internet Explorer, but the specification fails to mention that product – much less describe any ways in which applicant’s invention is simpler.

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 10 recites, a “simplified navigation interface”. It is unclear how this is simplified. Simplified compared to what? Applicant argues that it is simplified compared to Microsoft Internet Explorer, but the specification fails to mention Internet Explorer. In fact that is nothing in the claims, specification, or arguments explain just how this navigation interface is “simplified”. It is simplified because it has fewer buttons? Or maybe because the fonts are easier to read. Or perhaps it is simplified because it has hotkeys that are easier to remember. There are hundreds – possibly thousands – of ways to “simplify” a web browser compared to Microsoft Internet Explorer. Applicant’s claims fail to delineate which of these “simplifications” Applicant intends to claim as his own. Thus the metes and bounds of Applicant’s claim are unclear.

Art Unit: 3714

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claims 1, 3-5, 7-14, 16 & 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Xidos et al. (US Patent Number 5,851,149).

Claims 1, 9, 14: Xidos teaches displaying a web based game and receiving control input for the game from a television remote control. (Abstract) Xidos teaches that the network used the Internet protocol, therefore the games are web-based. The network described by Xidos is either the Internet or its equivalent.

Claims 3, 10, 16: Xidos teaches displaying a set of web-based games as navigation options. The player must have a means of choosing the game. Presumably, these navigation options could be more complex than they are, so they are “simplified” by comparison to some hypothetical “convoluted” navigation interface.

Claims 4, 13, 17: Xidos teaches receiving control input from a second television remote control. Fig 2 shows a large number of rooms (50) that may participate in playing the game. In each case, the input is provided by a remote control. Thus there is at least a second remote control providing input.

Claims 5, 11: The game is a gambling game. (Abstract)

Claim 7: Xidos teaches providing a game matching service to a user – the user chooses a game and is matched to that game.

Art Unit: 3714

Claim 8: The game control input is unique input – it is provided by each person and will, therefore, be unique to that individual.

Claim 12: Xidos teaches displaying the game remotely at a second location on a second television. Fig 2 shows a large number of rooms (50) that may participate in playing the game.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 2, 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Xidos as applied to claim 1 or 14 in view of Handelman et al. (US Patent Number 6,312,336).

Claims 2, 15: Xidos teaches the invention substantially as claimed. Xidos teaches displaying a set of game control options (i.e., game selection, betting and game play inputs), but does not specifically teach displaying a set of game control options in a matrix format. The arrangement of the game control options on the screen is a matter of aesthetic design choice for which no stated problem is solved, or unexpected result obtained, by using the specific arrangement of controls on the screen claimed versus the arrangement of controls on the screen taught by the prior art. Furthermore, matters of aesthetic design cannot patentability distinguish over the prior art. In re Seid, 161 F.2d 229, 73 USPQ 431 (CCPA 1947). Be that as it may, however, Handelman explicitly teaches displaying a set of game control options in a matrix format. (Figs 2A-E)

Arranging control options in a matrix format makes them easier to find and understand.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Xidos in view of Handelman to display a set of game control options in a matrix format in order to make them easier to find and understand.

12. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Xidos as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of How to "Know When Your Buddies Are Online" (AOL, 1997).

Claim 6: Xidos teaches the invention substantially as claimed, but does not teach tracking the online status of a group of individuals designated by a user. Xidos teaches using Internet protocols as the basis for the disclosed system. A chat feature is a well-known feature of the Internet. Providing a chat feature is known to foster a sense of camaraderie that increases the use of a gaming system. (See Falciglia (US Patent Number 5,935,002) which is made of record but not relied upon.) As a part of providing a chat feature, it is well known to track the online status of a group of individuals designated by a user. AOL's Instant Messenger application implemented this not later than 1997. This allows the user to determine if the people he wants to chat with are available. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Xidos in view of the well known state of the art with regard to chat features (as described in "How to Know When Your Buddies Are Online") in order to allow the user to determine if the people he wants to chat with are available, thus fostering the chat feature that is known to attract players.

Response to Arguments

13. Applicant's arguments filed 16 August 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

14. Applicant argues that Xidos does not teach the Internet. But Xidos teaches using the Internet protocol. Thus the network taught by Xidos is equivalent to the Internet. Thus the rejection under 35 USC §102 is proper. Note that a network that is equivalent to the Internet does not have to be part of the Internet.

15. Applicant argues that Examiner contradicts himself by stating that the layout of game control options on a screen is a matter of design choice and showing that it is well known to arrange control options in a matrix. There is no contradiction. Examiner could easily provide art that arranges game control options in a myriad of different configurations on a screen. Examiner is merely stating that it makes no difference where the control options are located, they function the same way. While not required, Examiner provided art that shows control options arranged in a matrix. Xidos teaches a game that has control options. Handelman teaches arranging control options in a matrix on the screen. The reasons for making the combination are stated above.

16. Applicant argues that, "The Examiner must establish that the cited references provide a motivation to combine." This is, of course, a misstatement of the law. The law actually is that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. (Emphasis added.) See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case,

Art Unit: 3714

Examiner supplied art (Falciglia) that taught the desirability of including a chat feature in a gambling device. Falciglia is knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

17. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a). ✓

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
